

Colouring in

Bring the Royal Air Force to life by colouring in these drawings of pilots and aircraft of the Second World War.

The uniforms that our pilots wore and the aircraft may be quite different to what you see in the Royal Air Force today, so make sure to do a little bit of research before you begin. You might like to model your colouring based on a real Second World War pilot or an aircraft from our collection, or perhaps you'd like to get creative. You can use lots of different media to colour these in, such as pencil crayons, felt tip pens or paints.

Once you have completed them, why not share your work with us on social media?

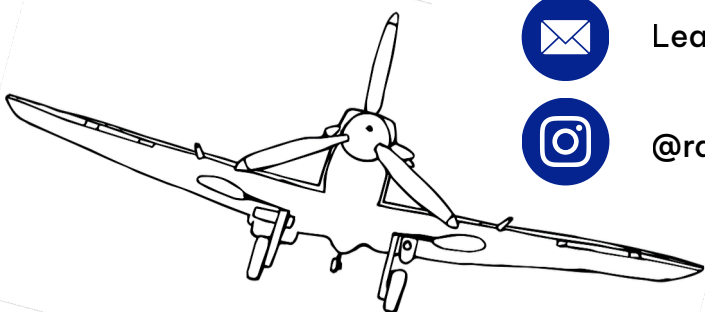

RAF Museum Learning

Learning-Midlands@rafmuseum.org

@rafmlearning

Supported by the Royal Air Force
Museum American
Foundation

ROYAL AIR FORCE museum

